

KENYATTA UNIVERSITY

Ministry Of Health

USAID
FROM THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

unicef

CDC
CENTERS FOR DISEASE CONTROL AND PREVENTION

Health Promotion

1st International Conference on Health promotion

Theme: Promoting Health during and Beyond COVID-19 to Accelerate Action on SDGs

Date: February 16th -18th 2022

Invitation and Call for Abstracts and Papers

Chief Guest: CS Health

Objectives

The Conference aims to identify gaps, disseminate study results, share best practices on linking health promotion to SDGs and formulate a Call to Action.

Sub-Themes (Please see the website for details)

Sub-themes 1:

Prevention (Health literacy and health behaviors, Access to information and Advocacy)

Sub-theme 2:

Promotion (Building capacity for health promotion, Strengthening health systems, Partnership and inter-sectoral Collaboration, Community empowerment, promotion of quality care and management of COD 19 and related infections)

Sub-Theme 3:

Protection (Mitigating impacts of COVID and other infectious diseases)

Sub-theme 4:

Research and Evidence formulation

Sub-Theme 5:

Best practices in health promotion during COVID 19 and beyond

Sub-Theme 6: Policy framework

ABSTRACT SUBMISSION

Scientific papers and posters are invited from any of the above thematic areas.

Please submit your abstract of not more than 250 words by 27th September 2021 to: hpconference@ku.ac.ke.

Submission of Abstracts (250 Words): (On-going)

Notification of Acceptance: (On-going)

Registration Fee Payment (On-going)

Final Paper Submission 26th November, 2021

Please see abstract submission guidelines on the website www.ku.ac.ke/healthpromotionconference Email: hpconference@ku.ac.ke

For more information, please contact;

School of Public Health and Applied Human Sciences

Health Promotion Conference – Organizing Committee Communication Phone: +254 752463048

Email: hpconference@ku.ac.ke

Kenyatta University... ISO 9001:2015 Certified

Kenyatta University, School of Public Health and Applied Human Sciences

Transforming Higher Education...Enhancing Lives