

AGE 890	MASTERS THESIS
Course Description	Each student will concentrate on his/her research work and present an original Master's Thesis, which is examined according to the existing University regulations. The Master Thesis will be carried in a selected Watershed whose results will be of immediate use to solving the identified problems. The students will be expected to present three seminars; the research proposal, post-field work seminar and a seminar on the draft thesis before submission.